HERE'S RICHNESS.

Charlie Fair Has Decided Not to Run.

The Chronicle has interviewed Senator Fair about the probability of his boy Charley running for Congress. It makes rich reading for Nevada people. Here it is.

Mr. Fair was seen last evening and shown the telegram referred to and asked whether such an offer had been received by him. He said: "Yes, I received a letter today from some Democratic friends in Nevada asking me if I would accept the nomination. I have not replied to them as yet, but intend to positively decline to run. The convention will meet at Winnemucca on May 27th, but my name will not go before it with my consent. In the first place I have not been in Nevada except to pass through the State for over six years and in the second place I would not run against F. G. Newlands, who is really entitled to the position, although he is a Republican."

"Have your friends made any effort to have Mr. Newlands withdraw from the field?"

"None that I know of. It would be of no use, anyhow, as I would not run."

"Would you be likely to be elected if nominated?"

"Now, it is just like this," answered the ex-Senator, who heard the question, "some of Charley's friends in Nevada wrote down here to see if he would run. When I was there I could get whatever I wanted, and I suppose they think Charley could do the same, but I advised him to decline the nomination because Newlands is entitled to it, no matter whether it be from the Republicans or the Democrats. He has done more for the State than any other citizen in it. A Democrat cannot be elected in Nevada without the help of the Republicans, for it is naturally a Republican State, but they have so many mixed tickets there that I guess they thought Charley would be treated the same as I was and be elected."

"Oh, I suppose I would be elected if I run," said the young Fair, "but I am not going to, so it makes no difference. I can understand that the desire is to swell the Democratic majority in Congress, and they thought Nevada would help with one."

Mr. Fair stated that his private affairs would occupy his time to such an extent that he could not take part in the campaign, and that his letter of declination would be forwarded to Virginia, Nevada, to-day.

The above is about the most refreshing reading that has been turned loose for some years. Nobody but a man with the monumental gall of Fair could have talked in that way. Some ways in Virginia city have been making sport of the family by making an offer of the Congressional nomination and they have taken it seriously. Fair after deciding that his son don't want it, turns the office over to Newlands as if he had the entire say so in the matter.

This interview will do Newlands more harm than anything else, if we do not very much mistake the temper of the people of this State.

After reading the valedictory of the late editor of the News, one wonders why a man who run the paper up to such an enormous circulation and made such a howling success of his venture, should have so suddenly retired from the business. If his column and a half farewell to greatness is true he would have been a millionaire had he only held on for another year. His attention is called to the fact that a new paper is needed in San Francisco.

Too Remote for Grover.

A. C. Cleveland, the man who has been in San Francisco all the spring promoting a competing transcontinental railroad, is a wealthy stock-raiser over in Nevada, and a few days ago when J. P. Irish read in the newspapers that Mr. Cleveland is a relation of the ex-President the Colonel immediately clothed himself in his hat and went over to the Palace Hotel to cultivate a closer acquaintance.

"You may have heard," said Col. Irish to Mr. Cleveland, "of the new weekly paper that is about to be launched upon the sea of journalism in this city. It is to be a literary, political and live-stock weekly, containing the latest reports of the cattle market in every issue, perfectly independent, but giving its undivided support to the first railroad company that offers the greatest inducements. In politics, of course, it will support Grover Cleveland first, last and all the time!"

"What, that chump!" exclaimed the Nevada man. "Why, he's down on silver."

"But I understand that he's a relative of yours," returned the Colonel.

"Well, our pedigrees run through the herd-book to the same importation," said Mr. Cleveland, "but we are so distantly related that it really doesn't do Grover Cleveland any good."

Excursion to Virginia.

There ought at least to be a hundred men go up to Virginia next Saturday evening to help the big silver demonstration to be held there. If 50 people go, a special train can be secured at a dollar a head for the round trip.

A number of Empire people are anxious to go, and if a crowd of Carson people marched up the street from the depot, headed by an appropriate transparency, it would give eclat to the demonstration.

The Reno Silver Club ought also to be in line, and every station along the road should contribute its quota of Free Silverites.

Those who wish to go can leave their names at Noteware's store, and as soon as sufficient names are secured, a special train will be chartered.

Citizens' Meeting.

There will be a citizens' meeting at the Court House on Thursday evening in reference to the new school building. Mr. Wagner has secured plans from Mr. Curtis of Reno, by which the building as it now stands could be completely remodeled and enlarged and made to look like a modern school building at an expense of not over $10,000.

All parties interested in the school building are earnestly requested to be present at the meeting and inspect the plans, that parties who are not in favor of a $40,000 debt can vote intelligently on election day.

Prof. Howe has inspected the plans and is very much in favor of them.

Bob Logan's Topaz.

Some months ago Bob Logan of Brunswick found a stone in Pine Nut which he thought might be a diamond. He took it to San Francisco, and a lapidary there pronounced it a white topaz, weighing 26 carats. The stone was divided in half and one half cut into a brilliant and set in a ring.

It is a very attractive stone, flashing fire in the sunlight, and valued by its owner at $100.

He proposes to have the rest of the stone made into shirt studs.
